LA CULTURA ITALIANA: PRESENTATION OF THE MONUMENTAL NEW ENCYCLOPAEDIA OF THE ITALIAN CIVILIZATION

In collaboration with UTET Publishing House

The first great encyclopaedia devoted to the whole cultural development of the Italian Peninsula published by UTET one of Italy's oldest publishing houses.

Twelve huge breathtaking tomes to describe how the Italian civilization has evolved since ancient times to the present and how one of the most complex and sophisticated cultures of the world has been transmitted, modified and enriched through the centuries.

Luigi Luca Cavalli Sforza, the world-known geneticist, professor emeritus at Stanford University, and chair of the editorial board of La Cultura Italiana, will explain how the new theories of the relationship between cultural evolution and biological evolution have been the guiding principles of this truly monumental enterprise.

Expert discussants will join Cavalli Sforza: historian of art and Director of the Italian Academy David Freedberg (Columbia University), philosopher Achille Varzi (Columbia University), geneticist Emilio Bizzi (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), and director of Casa Italiana Zerilli-Marimò Stefano Albertini (New York University).
